The poils opened to-day for the annual election of a King to reign over the Ninth Coney Island Mardi Gras, which will be celebrated the whole week, Sept. 11 to 16, a "Carnival of the Carnival of the Carniva week, Sept. Il to 16, a "Carnival of Flowers and Song."

The election this year will be conducted on an entirely new plan. No Queen will be elected by popular vote. Instead the elected King will choose a local treatment on Saturday, within an Queen to share his throne on the first float in the nightly pageant, and pre-side with him at all functions during side. Here is the way it reads: the Carnival week. All candidates for "WM. D. No other candidates will be considered, and it will be a waste of time and ammunition for date whose name does not appear in the

USE ONLY OFFICIAL BALLOT, AND EVERY ONE VOTE.

The first official ballot was printed on the second page of The Evening World on Saturday, and it will appear on that page every day until Thursday, Sept. 7, when the polls close. In the early mails to-day came several votes for one or another of the "Official Candidates," and there are other signs of a brisk campaign and a hot hustling for votes for the respective candidates for King of the Revels.

franchise with their brothers, sweethearts, husbands and fathers, and ex-perience teaches that the fair ones are first-class campaigners in this annual test of popularity. It is easy to vote, and any reader of The Evening World is invited to vote as many times as he or she likes. To vote, cut out the official ballot coupon from the second page, fill in the name of the candidate in the space provided, either by writing it, printing it on your typewriter or stamping it in with a rubber stamp. Then send the ballot to the Mardi Gras Editor, Evening World, Room 313, No. 63 Park Row. Ballots may be sent in dally or saved and sent in in a bunch any time before the polls close. Ballots cannot be bought separate from the paper, nor can copies of The Evening World be bought in bulk, or large numbers, at any of the offices of The Evening World, for it is intended that this election shall be a true popular

GIMBEL AUGUST SALE OF

Is Backed by Sixty-nine Years of Experience $100,000 Worth of Fine Furs at One-third Less Than Regular Season Prices

That both knowledge and experience are required in the successful buying and selling of Furs fact not to be denied.

Why such low prices are possible at the approach of the Fur season:

Last Spring we bought many of these skins in foreign markets—when prices were at rock bottom. We made up these beautiful Furs in our own workrooms during the dull season. And for these reasons, and also because we are sacrificing some profit, we are enabled to offer the lowest prices for high-grade Furs that we believe have ever been quoted in New York.

Many of these Fur Coats will be made up to your special order from the skins you may select. You may also choose the kind and color of lining for any of the Fur Coats in this Sale, excepting those of inexpensive ponyskin Necessary alterations will be executed without additional charge on coats at $75 and upward.

Upon the payment of a satisfactory deposit, you may select any garment in this Sale and we will store it free of charge until the first of October.
